New automobile license tags go on sale the first of December. We wonder if the paint on them will last twelve months. The 1937 crop didn't do so well. Many cars on the road today have tags that appear to be a solid green in color. Well, maybe, the grapefruit yellow and black colors of the new tags won't fade.

Reports coming from all of the schools in the Lake area are to the effect that a most successful term is being experienced. John J. Leonard, county school superintendent, has visited this section several times this year and is doing all in his power to see that Glades schools come in for their part of consideration. (When Salvatore Gladen member of the school board, has worked untiringly for the advancement of our schools and various new buildings, prove that he has always been right where the schools of their section were concerned.)

Two lady tourists from Texas stopped by The Everglades News office on Tuesday of this week to seek information concerning the section. They were delightfully surprised when we revealed to them the interesting "story of bean farming" in this area. Maybe we stretched a point or two—but they enjoyed the story.

Football enthusiasts of the Lake region are making plans to attend the game next Friday night in West Palm Beach when Palmolive Blue Devils play the Wildcats. There will be hundreds of Blue Devil supporters on the sidelines when the game gets under way. Naturally, all of us are hoping for a victory.

Heavy Question

The big-game hunter was at a dance.

"I killed four lines one day, he boasted to his suffering partner.

"How wonderful," she replied.

"Did you tread on them?"

Around The Lake

Rev. W. B. Archer, pastor of the First Baptist church of Okeechobee, resigned his pastorate last week, and moved to Malone, Fla., where he has been called to the Baptist church there.

A notice from the district U. S. Engineer office in Jacksonville is to the effect that the Inter-county Telephone and Telegraph company has applied for a permit to place a submarine cable across the Caloosahatchee canal at the right side of the bridge at LaBelle. The cable is to be placed thirteen feet below mean low water or approximately six feet below the bottom of the channel at this time.

The Okeechobee high school football team was defeated by the Miami High school B team by the score of 19 to 6 in one of the best playing games seen on Okeechobee field this season. The Miami team was heavier than the Okeechobee boys but they held them down in very good shape.

The WPA project for street surfacing and improvement in Moore Haven is expected to be completed following the completion of the surfacing of Segment street from Riverside Drive, past the city hall to its intersection with Highway 67. Surfacing of this street was begun yesterday immediately upon the completion of the surfacing of Riverside Drive from the bridge to the city limits south.

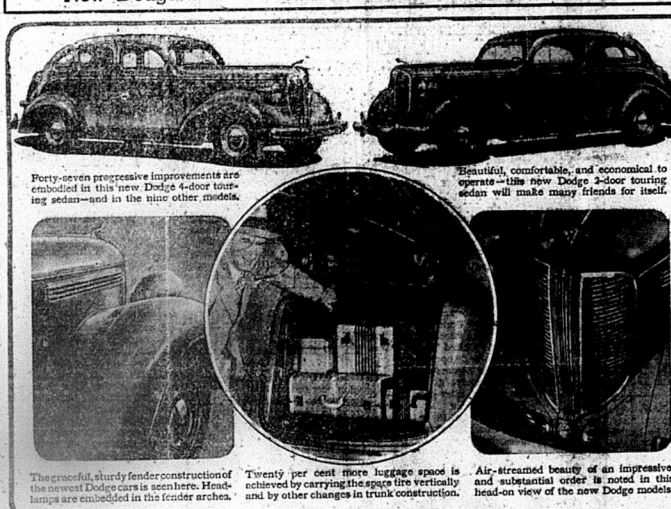

Dr. E. R. Ethridge of Tampa and associates have purchased a tract of land on Bear Beach from the Florida State Game Warden and are putting in a modern fishing camp at that place. It was reported this week. Eleven cabins, ten feet by fourteen feet are being erected for the convenience of visiting fishermen and the building of these cabins is said to be nearing completion.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Palm Beach Church Singing convention will meet at Canal Point Baptist church Sunday morning at 10 o'clock and will continue through the day. Dinner will be served at the church. Everyone is invited to attend. Come and bring a well-filled basket and let's enjoy the day.

New Dodge Line Presents Its Claims to Public Approval

Portly, seven progressive improvements are embodied in this new Dodge 4-door touring sedan—and in the nine other models.

Beautiful, comfortable, and economical to operate—this Dodge 2-door touring sedan will make many friends for itself.

The rugged, sturdy fender construction of the new Dodge cars is seen here. Head and fender are welded in the fender arches.

Twenty per cent more luggage space is achieved by carrying the spare tire vertically and by other changes in trunk construction.

Air-streamed beauty of an impressive and substantial order is noted in this head-on view of the new Dodge models.

DISAPPEARING TARGETS

Opening of the Florida hunting season November 20 finds more than 3,000,000 acres in the state closed to hunting as part of a determined effort on the part of federal and local authorities to preserve game and wild life from complete extinction.

It is indeed a far cry from the time the birds and beasts of forest and field were hunted only for food. The eating path seen today to be the least of the motives that send men and women out in hunting season to slay everything that comes within range of their guns.

Activity of the federal government in buying up submarginal land has paved the way for part of the protective work, as such lands can be posted against hunters of any kind. The Ocala National forest and the Choctawhatchee National forest contribute breeding grounds that are well patrolled. Large parts of Collier and Lee counties are closed to hunting, and watered patches in Palm Beach, Hendry, Highlands, St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee give sanctuary to birds and wild life to some extent.

But despite everything government can do, the public is able to deplete supplies of quality doves, turkey, deer and other wild creatures faster than nature can replenish the supply. Game laws are not rigidly enforced; in fact, some of those set to guard the wild life are the worst offenders in hunting out of season and in getting excessive amounts of birds and deer.

Florida as a frontier state comprised such vast forests and extensive swamps and wildernesses free from man's conquering hand that not even the first hunting of the Indians and the traps of the commercial hunters could not down the supply of game and birds. But, the highways have reached into nearly every corner of the state now. Men and women in automobiles are able to range farther than ever, and are equipped with better guns.

Civilization is running a race with the old frontier, and it is a question today whether we can devise ways of sparing and propagating targets for the huntermen on sufficient quantities to keep the woods and fields stocked with targets. The day is already at hand when Florida must begin to decide whether it will remove some forms of wild life from the hunters' list entirely, or suffer them to be extinguished.—Miami Herald.

NEW DRESS

The Daily Democrat of Tallahassee came out today in a "dress" that is extreme, but quite worth study by newspapermen everywhere. It is a streamlined makeup, seeking to eliminate a lot of typographical dead wood with which publishers now up their readers.

For instance, the type is set in six wide columns instead of eight narrow ones. The same of the paper instead of spreading across the entire first page, is displayed modestly in two-column width in the left-hand upper corner. Headlines are of one or two lines in place of the elaborate two and three-word affairs customary. Date lines are abolished. News is grouped by classes, local, crime, accidents, foreign, war, etc., and the reader is saved the time he otherwise wastes in scanning headlines and date lines, the material for which is usually repeated in the text.

In these times of mounting paper costs and news magazine competition, publishers might well take more stock of such changes as The Democrat displays. Admittedly its dress for today only is extreme, not from it one may pick many ideas that will speed up news reading and improve news display.

It emphasizes, as no pressman can do, the fact that newspapers are too prone to cling to the forms of the past, refusing to practice in their own press the reforms and progress they urge editorially.—Kenneth Ballinger in The Miami Herald.

MARK WILCOX

We are sorry that Congressman Mark Wilcox has decided to run against Senator Claude Pepper in an effort to unseat the latter, because one of these two able young men will have to be eliminated from the Florida delegation in congress. Nevertheless our best wishes are with Mark Wilcox. Congressmen from the state of Florida can serve the interests of South Florida more sympathetically than can the Tallahassee man.

Wilcox is also more able and more independent than Pepper, who in one gulp swallowed New Deal liberalism and the New Deal. The two men divide on the New Deal Wages and Hour bill, which is paid to be another NIA thing like that. Wilcox conscientiously opposed the principles of the Tennessee Plan and said so. Wilcox came out vigorously against the president's court reform measure although the bill never was discussed in the house, and never would have been necessary for Wilcox to have expressed himself.

While Claude Pepper has made mistakes, he is young, intelligent and energetic and would make Florida a valuable public servant. If we must choose between the two, our support, without hesitation, goes to Mark Wilcox.—Delray Beach News.

PAINT THAT WON'T RUB OFF In less than a month how Florida motorists will begin laying their hands on the barrel head for new automobile license tags. Once again they will pay a 25-cent fee for the privilege of paying their state auto license tag which runs from $5 up.

In the minds of a lot of motorists this year is the question: "How will the license tag paint job hold up?" Hundreds of faded and almost illegible tags testify to the poor quality of last year's paint job.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

By Russell Kay.

While other states may brag of their "soap box" derbies, if the Florida Waterways Congress has its way, Florida may establish a name for herself as the home of the "orange box" derby.

The novel idea, hatched in the fertile brain of Walter F. Cochrane, Jr., chairman of the Congress is designed to educate boys and girls of Florida as to the value and use of the state's enviable waterways system.

A few years ago someone conceived the bright idea of staging a so-called "soap box" derby, and prizes were offered kids who designed and built the most unique and speediest home-made coasters constructed as miniature motor cars.

The idea caught on, and in no time "soap box" derbies were being staged all over the country and winning kids were sent trips to the National Soap Box Derby, an event of such importance that sports editors of great press agencies assigned their best men to cover it, newswall companies via-with each other for favorable shots and both great broadcasting chains cleared all channels to pick the event on coast-to-coast hook.

Last summer in Ohio it was my privilege to witness the event and I was truly amazed at the interest and enthusiasm it created, not only among the kids but with thousands of spectators. Rivalry was keen, states and cities sent delegations to boost and encourage their entries. Dignitaries of national reputation greeted and felthe winners; manufacturers showed them with prizes and awards; newshawks and camera men swarmed over them in droves.

Under the plan of the Waterways Congress, desirable prizes will be offered boys and girls of Florida who build miniature yachts, cruisers or other water craft at a certain minimum cost and enter them in competition at regattas to be staged at various points in the state.

Counties, communities and sections will be urged to enter contestants and stage local elimination regattas—winners to be sent to a state contest at a later date.

Unimproved waterways are one of the state's greatest assets and it is fitting indeed that Florida, with her glorious coastline, her countless beautiful lakes and many scenic rivers, should employ this practical means of making the youth of the state conscious of this great natural advantage and encourage them to take an active interest in the further development of this God-given resource.

The plan has limitations as to possibilities and would serve to advertise, as nothing else could, the advantages Florida offers the yachtsman and waterway enthusiast. The successful staging of such a contest would undoubtedly lead other states to sponsor similar events and in time perhaps a National Orange Box Derby would result.

Florida has long overlooked a real opportunity in not pushing harder than she has the improvement and development of her waterways. Yachtsmen will seek Florida waters when we bring to their attention the opportunities this state affords. The completion of the cross-lake canal and the connecting of a few important inland waterways would make this state a yachtsman's paradise, and would bring millions in new business to every section of the state.

The proposed "orange box" derby is a step in the right direction. Every Florida community should cooperate in the plan and encourage the youth of their community to enter these contests. Chambers of commerce and civic clubs can help by informing themselves on the plan and sponsoring local entries.

Let's unite in a statewide effort to cash in on one of the greatest assets our state possesses—our waterways.

THANKSGIVING SERVICES

LAKE HARBOR, Nov. 23.—A Thanksgiving service was a special feature of the Christian Endeavor devotionals this week. Each member laid a written cause for Thanksgiving on the altar. Later in the service these were read. The topic for discussion, "Being Grateful," was led by Edna Henderson, assisted by Mary and Muriel Merriam. A report on the "Negro in America" program.

Others attending were Mrs. J. D. Hemphill, Mrs. H. D. Merriam, Polly Grant, Dorothy and Gladys Elkin, Glen Bentley, Dan Beardsley, Vernon Henderson, Floy Freyatt, Moya and Ralph Bishop.

ANCHOR BRAND SEED POTATOES

Grown in the Cumberland Mountains of Tennessee

The stock we have are grown from carefully selected certified seed.

The State of Tennessee requires three years rotation and is the only State that requires spraying and they also have a very rigid inspection and roguing program.

All certified seed must be graded in the presence of the State Inspector who then tags and seals every bag as it comes from the scales.

Every effort has been put forth to grow and produce fine high yielding seed, free from disease. Anchor Brand seed will stand out against any other.

Green seed will not set as heavy a crop as mature seed. Anchor Brand Seed are harvested earlier, thereby affording a longer rest period.

Potatoes shrink up to 5% the first few days after harvest. Anchor Brand Seed are stored several weeks before being shipped, which insures full weight at the time of shipping.

Sit down TO BREAKFAST You, too, Ma'am!

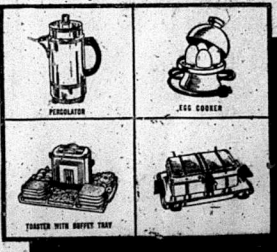

Every time we think of a woman running herself ragged getting breakfast—well, makes us sad. We feel like picking with a sign that reads "Unfair to Women!" It's so unnecessary.

You can do everything right at the table—electrically! Make waffles. Steam or poach eggs in one of those amazing little egg cookers. Or fry them with ham or bacon on the grill. And you can toast bread golden brown merely by flicking a switch while the aroma of perfect coffee, from your new glass coffee maker, subtly fills the air.

Lady, you've been missing something. Sit down to get breakfast. If necessary, stage a new woman sit-down strike until you get this sit-down-for-breakfast equipment!

WAKE UP and LIVE

Electrically

Go electrically! The way, the only way, to make your life easier. It's so easy to make up your mind to do it. It's only a few minutes to a day.
